Re: Name change for the Department of Loss Prevention and Safety

Please process a name change for the Department of Loss Prevention and Safety to the Department of Safety, Security and Emergency Management. Current LPS faculty voted to change the name of the department to match the name change for the master's degree program.

Rationale and Justification:

Recent market studies related to our online master's program indicated the term "Loss Prevention" is primarily associated with retail theft countermeasures and does not necessarily attract students to any of the other majors within the programs in the department. All of the programs within the department including the new Homeland Security program have some connection to the three components of the new name.

We would offer the LPS master's courses with the prefix SSE and we request the banner designation LPRV be changed to SSEM. If you have any questions, or I need to process any other paperwork, please contact me.
